GOMPERS BACKS POLICE

Warns Boston Authorities They Are Encouraging Bolshevism

WILSON SAYS:

I want to say men who have been active in the recent race riots that have convulsed the nation were not only the enemies of society, but men of a stamp that have no respect for civilization. And I want also to say that a strike of policemen of a great city, leaving the city at the mercy of an army of thugs, is a crime against civilization.

The obligation of the policeman, like that of the soldier, is to the people. He is a public servant. The honor and safety of the community is in his hands. I hope that this lesson will be burned into the souls of the responsible ones.—From speech of President Wilson at Helena, Mont.

GOMPERS SAYS:

The situation in Boston is leading to anarchy. The authorities should withdraw their order (referring to the order against the police affiliating with the American Federation of Labor) and the men should return to work and let there be a status quo. Now they are getting nowhere.

The present attitude of the authorities is only encouraging Bolshevism. In prohibiting the men their right to join, not a revolutionary body, but the American Federation of Labor, which surely is one of the most conservative organizations in existence, they are taking a dangerous attitude. Whenever there is an attempt at dictatorship or autocracy there is always reaction, as this situation shows.—Statement by Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, in New York today.

DEMANDS POLICE BE REINSTATED

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, issued a warning to Boston today that the attitude of the Boston authorities in the police strike was encouraging and leading to anarchy and Bolshevism. He demanded that the striking police be returned to duty and that the order barring them from the A. F. of L. be rescinded.

PETERS DENIES WOMEN ATTACKED ON COMMON

Mayor Peters today denied that women were being attacked in the streets of Boston and on the Common. Statements to this effect have appeared in papers of New York and other cities. The Mayor said that no single instance of the kind had been called to his attention, and that he wished outside communities to know that he "bitterly resented any such statements."

Violence Cannot Be Laid to Police, Says McInnes

"Thank God the blood guilt for these murders during the riots does not lie at the door of the Police," said John F. McInnes, President of the Police Association, when he called at the office of City Treasurer Thomas W. Murray for his pay. President McInnes was one of a number of striking officers who called for their money. Although it was the regular pay day, Treasurer Murray was obliged to tell them that, due to uncollectible delinquencies, they could not get their money until Monday.

PARSONS HELD IN $1,000 IN MOTOR BOAT DEATH

Salem, Sept. 12.—Walter T. Parsons of Manchester was held in $1,000 for the Grand Jury on the charge of manslaughter in Salem District Court today. The charge is the outcome of a motor boat accident Saturday at Manchester Harbor, in which Donald Campbell of Arkley, N. Y., a Columbia student, was drowned.

Bayonne, N. J., Sept. 12.—When John P. Dooley, an undertaker, today was called to prepare for burial the body of his lifelong friend, the Rev. Peter F. Kelly of St. Henry's Church, he was so overcome by grief that he dropped dead in the rectory.

DARING BANDITS ROB NEW YORK HOTEL GUESTS

New York, Sept. 12.—Daring bandits held up three large hotels in the very heart of Manhattan early today and made their escape in taxicabs. The robbers, who worked in three separate gangs, got less than $500 for their precious work. The hotels were the Sherman Square, the St. Paul and the Madison.

ROBBERIES AT GUESTS AND EMPLOYEES

So quietly did the bandits work that telephone operators, working just behind the clerks' desks, did not hear what was going on. They leveled revolvers at guests and employees and one proceeded to rob the cash drawers and the few guests remaining in the lobby.

Three men suspected of being connected with the robberies were arrested.

To Lunch Room Patrons

These facts will interest you. Lunch-room employees work nine hours daily. They get one day off each week.

Their meals cost them nothing. And they get the best. You know how good that is. The high cost of living is, therefore, of minor concern to them. The employer bears the brunt.

Their wages, besides their board, range from Twelve Dollars to Twenty Dollars a week, according to duties. Promotion, when deserved, is sure.

The average net profit to the Lunch Room on a 25-cent order is less than two cents!

Hence an increased wage-scale inevitably means increased prices.

GOMPERS' AFFILIAT STATEMENT WARMS BOSTON OF BOSTON STRIKE

DEMANDS POLICE BE ALLOWED TO JOIN A. F. OF L.

AUTOMOBILE MEN DO THEIR BIT FOR LAW AND ORDER

HUMAN MEN TAKE OVER TRAFFIC 'DIRECTION'

Mr. Gompers' statement follows President Wilson's condemnation of the Boston police when he said at Helena, Mont.: "The strike of the policemen of a great city is a crime against civilization."

Thus for the first time since the police struck three days ago organized labor through its head announces its opposition to authorized government.

Mr. Gompers' dramatic statement, made to the International News Service in New York, declared that in prohibiting the men to join the Federation of Labor the authorities were taking a dangerous attitude and attempting the establishment of a dictatorship and autocracy.

Governor Condit told newspaper men today that even if the police agreed to cancel their affiliation with the American Federation of Labor his opinion was that they would not be taken back. Asked if he would arbitrate with the federation's Committee of Seventeen, he said: "You can't arbitrate the government or the forms of law."

"Are you willing to agree to any compromise under certain conditions?"

"I don't see any opportunity to compromise the government or the forms of law in any way," he replied.

"Don't refer to the policemen as striking," said the Governor when one of the newspaper men used the word "strike." "Call it desertion from duty."

"Why can't we call it a strike?" persisted the interviewer.

"The police are not public employees, but public officers," said the Governor, "and public officers cannot strike."

"Do you anticipate calling for Federal troops," he was asked.

"We shall rely on our own State troops first to maintain law and order. We shall maintain law and order at all hazards. If it becomes necessary we shall call for Federal troops."

"Are you opposed to reinstatement of the men under any condition?" the Governor was asked.

"I don't think now of any conditions under which they might be reinstated. I have no authority over them. I have appointed Mr. Curtis police commissioner, and he is responsible, according to law."

"What are your objections to the police affiliating with the A. F. of L., Governor?"

"My chief objection," he said, "is that the control of government and the maintenance of law and order must remain in the hands of the properly constituted authorities. President Wilson made that clear in his Helena, Mont., speech."

These statements, the announcement that the Police Commissioner had refused to allow the men to join the A. F. of L., and the fact that the men had been ordered to return to work, have been the main features of the strike situation today.

BELIEVES SETTLEMENT FAR OFF. Mayor Francis made this statement: "I called upon Governor Condit today on my own initiative and asked him of my own hearty cooperation and that of all the city."

"With a broad mind, the Mayor added, 'I am sure that the Governor will be able to find a way to settle this strike.'"

The Mayor made no mention of the fact that the Governor had refused to allow the men to join the A. F. of L.

DEATH TOLL IS NINE. Henry Jones, twenty of No. 14, was killed during the rioting in the city. The other two deaths were those of men wounded Wednesday night.

Although in the main downtown streets normal order was maintained, a heavy guard of State Troopers was on duty, and there was a scattering of small disturbances throughout the city.

In Jamaica Plain State Troopers were trying to remove a mob of men who were attempting to burn down a building. The mob was dispersed, but the building was damaged.

BULLET THROUGH STOMACH. The military road from the city to the north was closed by a bullet through the stomach. Three others were dropped, and the road was closed for several hours.

Wilson Ready to Send Federal Troops to Boston

On Board President Wilson's Special Train En Route to Spokane, Wash., Sept. 12.—The whole might of the Federal power will be brought into play to end the policemen's strike in Boston if the state authorities are unable to do so and a way to rest is not found.

That was the intimation placed on the President's denunciation of the action of the Boston policemen late last night at Helena, Montana.

The President showed plainly that he meant exactly what he said. He had been talking for more than an hour when he suddenly clenched his fists and advancing directly to the very front of the stage fairly shouted:

"I want to direct here to say men who have been active in the recent race riots that have convulsed the nation were not only the enemies of justice, but men of a stamp that have no respect for civilization. And I want also to say that a strike of policemen of a great city, leaving the city at the mercy of an army of thugs, is a crime against civilization."

"The obligation of the policeman, like that of the soldier, is to the people. He is a public servant. The honor and safety of the community is in his hands. I hope that this lesson will be burned into the souls of the responsible men."

The President has been deeply concerned over the developments in Boston. He has asked for special information regarding the rioting there, and is prepared to take any necessary action to aid the authorities in restoring normal conditions.

BACK WHERE THEY STARTED. The streets presented a deplorable appearance. This was especially noticeable in South Boston where the rioting was the worst. The streets were filled with debris and the police were unable to maintain order.

BALLOON MAN HELD UP. There were a few isolated hiccups, the most daring of which was the sticking up of Thomas Allen, in his balloon at No. 25 Green Street, near the city hall. He was held up by a mob of men who were trying to force him to land.

FRUIT AND PRODUCE MEN STAND BEHIND CURTIS AND CONDEMNING STRIKE POLICE. The Boston Fruit and Produce Exchange today issued a statement that the members of that department were threatening to join the city forces if they strike. The exchange also condemned the strike of the police.

Autopsy Proves Man Killed in Riot Was Not Shot by Guard

The statement that Anthony Zeor, of No. 219 West Broadway, South Boston, who was killed during the rioting in South Boston Wednesday night, met his death from a bullet fired by some one in the crowd of rioters and not from the State Guardsmen, was substantiated today by the report of physicians who performed an autopsy on the body.

The physicians say that the bullet found in Zeor's body was from a 25-caliber automatic. Only rifles were used by the guards.

Zeor's name was first reported as Carr. Zeor is the correct spelling.

CAPT. JOHNSON TOTES' GUN IN WEST

Major's Classmate at Harvard Has 100 Men Ready to Serve as Police

One of the most interesting and mysterious individuals at City Hall today is Captain Alfred Johnson, of No. 18 Monument street, Brookline, a classmate at Harvard of Major Peter. In addition to presiding over the Mayor's young annual for his own protection, consisting of two revolvers, a pistol and a sword, Johnson is also a member of the men who step on one in the garage of the captain's palatial estate in Brookline.

Johnson is fully equipped to protect himself. He not only "totes" a gun and blacked, but also a small rifle in his vest and is carried for the purpose of holding a prisoner if he is taken. The captain has not used it as yet. Captain Johnson carries the revolver in a holster attached to his vest. He prefers this position to the hip, believing that he can whip the gun out more quickly.

BROOKLYN MACHINISTS TO CUT WEEK SHORT

New York, Sept. 12.—Thirty-three thousand Brooklyn machinists, who are demanding a forty-four-week week, will take matters into their own hands tomorrow, quitting work at noon. On October 1 the men will demand a twenty-five per cent wage increase. A number of shipbuilding concerns are affected.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE POLICE STRIKE

Margaret Walsh, twenty, of No. 602 East Sixth street, South Boston, was seized today at the Carney Hospital, where she was a patient, by a woman named John. There was a rumor last night that a woman of the same name had been seriously injured and was being treated at the hospital.

The South Boston Citizens' Association has appointed a committee to look into the matter and other articles for the entertainment of the State Guardsmen on duty in East Boston.

Voluntary police officers early today arrested seventeen persons in a clearing in allways and back street of the city. The men were taken to the police station in four men charged with carrying loaded revolvers, two on whom warrants had been served for rioting Tuesday night, are suspicious persons and four charged with being disorderly.

Among those brought to the station was a bulky individual, found sleeping in a doorway with a revolver in his hand by "Pete" Hadden and Tilden, another Harvard man. The man was later identified by his employer as a night watchman.

Another shooting indirectly due to the rioting occurred today in a small grocery store at No. 4 Perry street, when Anthony Di Marco, the proprietor, was accidentally shot in the back of the head with a charge of buckshot. Emilio Marone, a waiter, who had the shooting, says that he was examining a shotgun with which two men had been quarreling the night before. Di Marco was taken to the City Hospital. He is expected to recover.

Police Sergeant John M. Torman, who was charged with carrying a dangerous weapon without a permit, Di Marco is twenty-six and lives at No. 113 Salem street.

"If Federal troops are called out in command, every D. veteran in the city will offer his services." This was the statement made today by a man prominent among the veterans.

Autopsy Proves Man Killed in Riot Was Not Shot by Guard

The statement that Anthony Zeor, of No. 219 West Broadway, South Boston, who was killed during the rioting in South Boston Wednesday night, met his death from a bullet fired by some one in the crowd of rioters and not from the State Guardsmen, was substantiated today by the report of physicians who performed an autopsy on the body.

The physicians say that the bullet found in Zeor's body was from a 25-caliber automatic. Only rifles were used by the guards.

Zeor's name was first reported as Carr. Zeor is the correct spelling.

By Universal Service. New York, Sept. 12.—Carried aboard the transport Northern Pacific consumed in his brother's barracks last on September 27, 1918, when he was but fifteen, Maurice Day, who could not enlist because of his tender age, but who served on the battlefield, nevertheless, to such good effect that he was decorated with the Croix de Guerre by the French, he is back in America again. WILSON SPEAKS HOME STATE OF BORAH

President Disagreeably Surprised by Strike of Boston Policemen

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Bathurst, Idaho, Sept. 12.—President Wilson spent part of today in the home State of Senator William E. Borah, his chief opponent on ratification of the Treaty of Versailles.

His special train pulled in here this morning and shortly afterwards the entire party was en route by automobile to Court d'Aloup cote, where the President was scheduled to make his only address in Idaho. The auto trip was necessitated because the weight of the special train was considered too much for the branch line leading to Court d'Aloup.

The diversion, however, was a pleasant relief to the President and Mr. Wilson who have been confined to the train most of the time since the trip was started a week ago last Wednesday.

While the President still is expanding his reasons why the immediate ratification of the treaty is necessary, he has more time to devote to his discussion of industrial unrest and capital reaching the common ground of understanding.

The information reaching the President is most disquieting. Only a miracle is now appearing, an agreement that is some respect such a strike would be fully as disastrous as a general railway strike, and there is some over the nation the danger of a railway strike, inasmuch as there are demands by various organizations hanging fire that might at any time come to a head.

Then the strike of the Boston police came as a very disagreeable surprise to the President, especially as it was accompanied by the riotous order that had been predicted when the idea of policemen forming unions was first broached.

The President naturally views with concern all this unrest. He sees it as an argument that the peace treaty should be gotten out of the way in order that the business of the world might know what it was expected. But it is now so sure that he is so sure it is necessary to the influence of the treaty by reaching an agreement between labor and capital.

That is the big compelling reason for that matter, the President's declaration that "the only way to keep peace from suffering, and that peace is to remove the grievance."

NO MORE LUANS TO EUROPE IS WALSH PLAN

By Universal Service.

Washington, Sept. 12.—Compelling European nations to disarm by shutting them off from any more loans from the United States is proposed in a resolution introduced in the Senate by Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts.

It is believed by Senator Walsh that this measure, if adopted, will cure a defect in the peace treaty which made it possible for compulsory disarmament.

The resolution points out that the credits already extended by the United States to Europe since the war have amounted to more than $1,000,000,000. It says that the United States should not continue to extend such credits unless the European nations agree to disarm.

It is also stated that President Wilson has endorsed the suggestion that the United States should not continue to extend such credits unless the European nations agree to disarm.

Senator Walsh in his resolution makes the ground that the United States should not continue to extend such credits unless the European nations agree to disarm.

VON TIRPITZ TELLS OF MUTINY IN NAVY

VON TIRPITZ MEMOIRS

By ALFRED VON TIRPITZ,
Grand Admiral of the German Navy.

The policy of the German navy, perhaps its chief purpose, was to hinder the outbreak of war.

This statement sets before me the hardest, most cruel task I will encounter in writing these memoirs.

I must show how this wonderful organism, which we counted to preserve the peace of Europe through increasing our prestige and warning off those who might attack us or combat our world aims, not only was unable to preserve the peace of Europe, but was unable to even secure for us a peace of honor, and not a most ignominious end.

The dramatic destruction of the Imperial Navy in the Scapa Flow was far more terrible than the infamous sale of the old German fleet by Admiral Fischer.

When the distressed waters of the Flow closed over the decks which were to have been scenes of glory and twisted into the muzzles of the great guns which might have smashed the floating, armored wall which barred us from our victory, they closed a long chapter of political checks to a magnificent fighting machine and laid of us, responsible leaders.

Concedes U. S. Balance of Power.

The acquisition of the German navy has deprived the smaller navies of the world of their vitality. The maintenance of the balance of power at sea now rests entirely on the American navy.

This is not a surprise to Great Britain. I am not one of those who delude themselves in the belief of a future conflict between England and America. I cannot foresee any serious antagonism between the two great Anglo-Saxon powers. Their capitalistic logic enslaves all other nations which, since the breaking down of the German navy have no longer any support in asserting their freedom.

The plan of the German navy was not conceived in any thought of war with England. It was the result of the desire to have a navy which would destroy her navy and render our enemy helpless without the necessity of costly and bloody land campaigns.

Herin lay the original plan of the German battle fleet construction. Afterward, in 1916, because of unexpected threatening measures on the part of Great Britain, it was inevitable that our plans should consider a British fleet added to the French. After the incident of the Kruger telegram, it was known to us that the British had commissioned a squadron especially with the use of battle ships at sea. This gave Germany a new point of view in fleet building. It was the reason for Ströhm working out his offensive plan against England which he mentioned to us in private conversations. It was not until the beginning of the twentieth century that the first official plan for naval operations against the English was elaborated and perfected.

The British view that we acquired Holland as part of a preconcerted plan to attack England is erroneous. At the time Holland was acquired, the German navy was entirely indifferent as to whether we had it or not. In fact there was an unconscious declassification due to the fact that it meant the spending of vast amounts of money on fortifications which we wanted for the development of the navy.

To be sure, as early as 1876 in a letter to my father outlining a preliminary fleet plan, I had demanded Holland. But with the development of the torpedo the need for it became unimportant. There was no longer the danger of a French invasion of the Netherlands. It was in 1913, in the event of a war with England never even occurred to us because war with England was not in our thoughts.

The value of Holland in modern warfare only arose when I made the technically daring decision of developing it into a harbor. This in 1904 making a naval base out of a rock and rendering a blockade of our coast more difficult.

Denies "Der Tag" Stories.

I flatly deny all stories of "Der Tag" being given as a toast at German naval officers' banquets. I am not one of those who, as the first Lord of the Admiralty and it was rapidly circulated throughout the press of the world.

(There are many authentic accounts, some told by American naval officers, of the drinking of the "Der Tag" by German naval officers. The toast referred to "the day" on which the German navy should meet in battle the navy of Great Britain—Editor's Note.)

Indeed, this was the feeling between the officers' corps of the two navies was far too mutual to permit any such occurrence. The good breeding of the German officers would have made anything of the kind impossible, quite apart from the folly of wishing to fight with an opponent of equal rank and double our strength.

(Cauldwell, the fact that German naval officers ordered gunnery to fire on ships containing survivors of torpedoed vessels and their ill-treatment of women and children, von Tirpitz remarks regarding the kind and breeding need not be taken too seriously. His other argument carries more weight, though it is offset by his repeatedly expressed conviction that the British fleet would be destroyed in the next few months—Editor's Note.)

History, which could not harm us. My one regret is that the German navy was denied the efficient direction under which it might have helped us to a European peace. The best acknowledgment of the German navy's power to do this, its great military value and the high maintenance of its power on the part of its enemies, lies in the fact that the longer the war continued the more definitely did the British navy avoid an encounter. In spite of their growing preponderance they never made a premeditated attack upon us. No encounter was ever sought from their side.

(The British admirals, Sturdee, Beatty and Jellicoe, repeatedly asserted that a policy of aggression was pursued by the British navy. Their investigation in Parliament established the fact that the British navy was unable to meet the German navy in battle because it could not be forced to do so, according to the British navy's own policy.)

All of Germany Disseminated.

Even upon the latter loss our navy was not defeated in open battle. It was attacked by and succumbed to the disease which has infected all of Germany. I have said in my memoirs that the British navy was not defeated in open battle, but that it was defeated by the disease which has infected all of Germany. I have said in my memoirs that the British navy was not defeated in open battle, but that it was defeated by the disease which has infected all of Germany.

(Pretz dispatches through neutral countries as early as the summer of 1918 did not mention the fact that the British navy was not defeated in open battle, but that it was defeated by the disease which has infected all of Germany. It is probable such conditions existed before those dispatches filtered through—Editor's Note.)

Mutiny and revolution in the German navy and not the streets which are charged against us, were responsible for the contempt which the British navy had for the German navy. The British navy was not defeated in open battle, but that it was defeated by the disease which has infected all of Germany.

Gloomy as Germany's Prospects.

"I am proud to believe such brave men on board my squadron." How different this glorious memory from the first orders to the crews who were to guard the sailors on the surrendered German vessels in which he said: "Never forget that the enemy is a despicable beast." I repeat that this change of attitude was due to the contempt which the spirit of mutiny and revolution called down upon our seamen from our enemies who stood steadily by their guns.

Lying hidden in the rank of the future is the possibility that our grandsons may one day stand in the same place as Germany's grandsons put her again in the foremost rank of the great powers. The attempt, made by our fathers was premature and lacked adequate means. Our own attempt was made late but not too late. Based on the fact that it ought to have succeeded. Whether our grandsons will ever again make the same mistake I cannot say. I cannot say that Germany has lost her last chance of rising to the position of a real power.

Those who follow us should learn from our attempt and gain confidence. Germany will at least attain to new life and honor, when she shakes off the depravity and lack of discipline which grips her and, coming to her own, recognizes, according to her old traditions the forces which made her great.

Our difficult geographical position, the constant influx of non-German elements and divisions of opinion, the regulator of monarchic power is indispensable. The German position may be said to be a systematic mistake, but it is a mistake which has been in existence for a long time.

The repetition idea as it has been developed among the German people promises to the masses which cannot be fulfilled. Therefore, in order to keep the German people in the hands of the German people, it is necessary to give "lighter" first place and consider "Daddy-Long-Legs" second rank.

Why you save over $3.00 per pair when you buy Emerson shoes

THE average cost of the leather linings, etc., from which the shoes in our stores are made has advanced over $3.00 per pair.

You make this saving because a fair and square retail price is branded in the process of manufacture on the soles of every pair of Emerson shoes in our stores, based on what the materials cost us, not the market value today.

I have always given my customers any saving I can make for them as a result of my long experience in knowing when to buy leather, because I prefer to sell many shoes at a small profit rather than a few shoes at a large profit.

As a result of this policy Emerson Sales have increased over 600% in the last four years.

Never before have we shown so many smart up-to-date models—acknowledged the last word in fashionable footwear.

Look in our windows; inspect our shoes and judge for yourself. You will find just the model you want at the price you want to pay.

INDIANS HERE FOR SERIES WITH SOX

By NICK FLATLEY.

Trin Speaker's Cleveland Indians have arrived in our turbulent midst, to have what few remaining dreams of pennant they possess knocked out of their craniums. They bump into the Red Sox at a time when champions are coming along like the champions of other years.

The Fenway flock are just about unbeatable now, and will undoubtedly head the second division when the season ends. They will not miss, since the desertion of Carl Mays has been a good thing for the team. Since the heroic fight, the only other brace remarkably, have at least won as many games as any other club in the circuit. They have grabbed nine in a row.

The Indians, who haven't shown

The value of a play largely depends upon the stage of the game. The first rule of baseball is that the game is won or lost at one stage of the game and miserable at another.

The ten-mile classic will settle who the long-distance title-holder, while the ten-mile match, to be run in three heats of ten miles each, will decide which of the speed devils will be crowned as the crown asprint champion.

The match race is the most important event of the season. The race will pit the winners of the leading classics of the season just closing will come to the starting line.

It will be a contest between Earl Campbell, Chevrolet, who established a world's record for 100 miles in the Derby at Santa Anita, and Earl Campbell.

monetary Sept. 12-19th. The money was distributed over Columbus to let Hank Gandy show the home folks how the big leaguers do it. It arrived here just as full of fight as though they were getting ready for the title tilt instead of being hopelessly mired in the second division. That is what makes baseball real.

When a team, hopelessly out of the running, struggles on—but to get back to the matter immediately in hand, Dick Rudolph was the first to go. He was the Stalling Brigade in the tilt at Redland today. He, Adolph Luque seemed to be the only one who was not at Moran.

As regards Speaker, however, it's only fair to him to state that he took a team that was a bit discouraged perhaps, at its inability to get on top and stay there. The "Red" Centre fielder's managerial ability was come next year, when he starts the season with a team of his own.

Always play for the runner at first base after two are out.
Always think out a play in advance. Study the stages of the game, and figure what you will do with a ball when it comes to you. When it comes, make the play as rapidly as possible.
Never hold a ball, unless it is ahead of the runners. Get it to the point where it blocks the runner from advancing.

Louisville 3, Milwaukee 4.

From the cream of the racing world in the 25-mile Classic at Uniontown; Tommy Milton, who smashed records in winning the Elgin road race, and Louis Chevrolet, who took down first money at Tacoma last July 4.

Added Haldh Mollory.

This is the greatest field that ever started in a Sprint race anywhere in the world and means that records now should be heard of starting for a mile.

The 10-mile classic has attracted the largest field of horses ever gathered. Every pilot entered has helped to make auto racing the most exciting and profitable sport and the speed demon that dingles in front of this is the most undependable king of the racing game.

Hugh McQuillan pitched the whole game for the Braves. He was steady, waiting a lifetime until the right female, which accounts somewhat for his not being scored on much of the other side of the Atlantic. In his life, Taggart's home ran in the tennis line, with two sons, was the only one of his kind in the city. His son, who was a member of the club, had his seat over Carroll's head in the gallery. He was, by the way, a good impression.

BOSTON RUN MAKING.

In addition to big third and fourth prizes Boston also scored a run in the tennis line, which is interestingly to open up for the French in the game when Thorpe tripled and the other side of the Atlantic and Aquilun walked and Boeck's double scored him.

One of the peculiarities of the time was the fact that Boeck and Thorpe were the only ones to be mentioned and Thorpe had but five points at first base.

The Boston Tufts College corps, a traveling second in the club, was in the second round in practice of did well.

eighteen chapters that were split off from the main body of the book. Both Alvin Russell and Herbie Ferguson, checking the brand of horses, found that the experts call (invariably) on the other hand. The book battered early leaders in the first game, and took full advantage of Maple's weakness in the second. The scores were 10-0 and 10-0.

The gloomy weather kept the crowd down, but what few could were there and twined their heads off as usual every time the Earth came to bat. It didn't get a honor for himself, though, and so of the three runners, Brockie was the initial encounter. He went hitless in the second, ground out his first, and bled.

Despite the bad playing conditions, the Sox executed in faultless style in the field, throwing the runners out. Brockie, who was supposed to be a shoo-in, was snubbed for a strike at first, didn't exactly show up like another wonder. He was strong to the plate, and had a whole infield running around in rings.

Either Sam Jones or Waits' home was ready to go to the first in the first game. Brockie was snubbed for a strike at first, didn't exactly show up like another wonder. He was strong to the plate, and had a whole infield running around in rings.

TAILORING SALE

About Wednesday the squad will be divided, and a few days later between thirty and forty men will be assigned to the training table, which is to be opened in the Variety Club. The new squad will have to wait two weeks from tomorrow. Between now and that time at least four men are expected to be dropped, and the Crimson team will enter the contest armed for victory.

"Jack" Hardwick was on the job despite his run in with the Boston Red Sox, where he is serving as a volunteer police officer. But George Hatcher, one of the players, who has a badly cut face, did not report.
